

INTRODUCTORY ADDRESS

It is evident that the volume of medical literature and the recent advances has been vastly increased over the past years, far exceeding the publishing capacity of many print and electronic journals. With the development of newer techniques, better understanding of pathophysiology of diseases and advent of technology, the profound advancement in the field medicine has been witnessed. There are very selective scientific platform that publish these materials. Moreover, the professional growth in the field of medicine is largely dependent on the research and its publication. At present scenario the publication of scientific material is a great need of practicing medical fraternity. Journals are major source to update recent medical and surgical sciences. Advancement will help the Medical personal practice medicine with ease and expertise. International Journal of Recent Surgical and Medical Sciences is also one of them.

IJRSMS will include original research material, unusual case reports, review papers and many more. This journal will accommodate articles that are upstanding and praiseworthy to be acknowledged on worldwide web. With this first August issue, The Journal of Recent of Surgical and Medical Science (IJRSMS) would like to start off as an online publishing issue. is an official publisher of IJRSMS. The articles will be submitted online and will be processed and peer reviewed by double blind method. The advantages being an online journal rather than a print journal is that the journal will include a greater volume of helpful information that will be available to our readers in shorter amount of time. However we believe that quality researches and scientific information should spread horizontally across the world and by the clinicians, Universities, or Institutions. However, primary role of journal shall be bridging the scientific gap between the researchers and the readers.

The journal wishes to raise the level of care in the field of medical & surgery field and thus improve the quality of life and socioeconomic benefit to the patients. For the next 5 years IJRSMS is planning to achieve international standards of researches by the making of strategic plan and activities in the editorial panel and peer-reviewing quality. With these aim we put a step forward in the field and research and publication in order to serve for the national and international health care system.

*Editorial Team & Board of Directors
IJRSMS
E – mail – editor@ijrsm.com,
info@ijrsm.com*

How to cite this article – Editorial Team & Board of Directors. Introductory Address IJRSMS. 2015; 1(1): 1